A New European Army: A welcome move

We welcome the proposal by France to create a fully operational European Army. When Mosley include "defence" in his proposals for a Europe a Nation mandate he recognised the need for a third force in world politics and recent events have proved him right. In the recent conflict between Russia and Georgia it became increasingly obvious that the United States, already militarily over committed in the Middle East on behalf of Israeli interests, expected Britain or its European partners to interfere in the conflict on behalf of Georgia. Rightly, EU states kept out of the dispute, but the pressure from the US clearly demonstrated the urgent need for a strong, independent European Army which would only act in the best interests of our European peoples.

A new danger for Britain

When Gordon Brown took over as Prime Minister from Tony Blair most Britons felt that he would act more responsibly on the World stage than the warmongering US/Zionist puppet that Blair had become. But Brown, in a bid to demonstrate his subservience to Zionism quickly became the first British Prime Minister to visit Israel and address the Israeli parliament. Alarming, during his speech to the Knesset he committed Britain to use its military strength to protect Israel should the need arise. "Britain is your true friend, a friend in difficult times as well as in good times. A friend who will stand beside you whenever your peace, your stability and your existence are under threat".

Blair, the puppet, couldn't have put it better himself!

Who will save the workers?

The recent victory by the independent trade union Solidarity in saving the jobs of three of its members was indeed welcome. Also welcome was the evidence that trade union officials from the more established unions were actually coercing bosses to sack workers because of their political beliefs.

The fat cat officials from the big unions need to remember that trade unions were originally formed to protect workers from the bosses. But who, we ask, will protect the workers from the fat cats?

France proposes a New EUROPEAN ARMY

Every nation needs an army to protect its borders and its interests and France will use its six-month presidency of the European Union to propose the creation of a new European Army. Under the proposals the European army would have its own dedicated military headquarters its own military structures and be independent of the US-dominated NATO Alliance.

The French proposal has the support of the Polish Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, Jacek Saryusz-Wolski, who has called for the EU to develop its military capability by funding a new European Army and the implementation of a common foreign and security policy. The latter proposal was first made in 1962 by Sir Oswald Mosley in the European Declaration approved at the Venice Conference.

At present, the EU has fifteen "Battle Groups" each provided by a member country. These are seen as the basis for the new European Army. The strength of each group is currently around 1,500 soldiers and they take turns to be on standby for peacekeeping or humanitarian missions outside the EU. They currently operate under the title "Eurocorps".

The French proposal calls for a dramatic increase in numbers of these battle groups with every member country being committed to providing troops and equipment. The next step will be to amalgamate the groups under one command structure and complete funding from an EU defence budget. The establishment of the European Army will not initially effect current national armies who will continue to maintain their regimental structure and national identity. Troops from national armies will be seconded to the European Army just as they are currently sent on United Nations peacekeeping duties. However, Europeans will eventually be able to join the new European Army directly as volunteers, without having first to join their national army. If the proposed European Constitution, stalled at the moment because of its rejection by Irish voters, is ever ratified then the Eurocorps will be expanded to 60,000 strong, with Britain already committed to permanently seconding 10,000 troops to the EU military force. France and Germany are expected to commit a similar number. Funding of a European Army by EU member states will help to match the massive £230 billion spent on defence by the United States and eventually make Europe fully independent of US foreign and defence policies.

"Europe a Nation" will have taken another step forward!

Of course a volunteer army from several nations serving under one flag for one ideal is not a new idea. In the European civil war of 1939-45, the German Waffen SS recruited over 350,000 non-German volunteers from 16 countries. These included Britain, France, Belgium, Spain and the Netherlands, all countries which now are part of the European Union.

Iraqi Refugees Behind New Sex Grooming Scandal

Sheffield

English girls as young as 12 are being forced into prostitution by Iraqi refugees according to a recent report. Children from ordinary British families are being groomed by older men posing as boyfriends before being drugged and taken to various towns in Britain to be raped and abused up to 20 times a night. The report, by the UK Human Trafficking Centre, states that girls as young as 12 are being taken from town to town to be raped and assaulted. In one operation, 32 victims were identified in the Sheffield area. All were under 15 years-old and had been drugged and raped.

Police sources claim to have identified "syndicates of Iraqi men living in various parts of Britain who are responsible for forcing these young girls into the sex trade".

Tory Councillor in Sex Disgrace

A Tory councillor has been fined for engaging in a sexual act in a public toilet. Forty-one year old Bob Benson, a Conservative councillor for Harrow, was discovered by police taking part in a sexual act with another man in a public toilet cubicle. At Wimbledon Magistrates Court, Mr Benson, an active member of the prestigious Stanmore synagogue, admitted the offence and was fined £200 plus costs. The other man received a police caution. Conservative Central Office refused to comment when asked if Mr Benson would be sacked from his position on Harrow Council.

School Governors Reject Labour Bullying Tactics

The school governors of Teesdale school have rejected Labour Party bullying tactics and defended their decision to employ a BNP council candidate as a supply teacher. The teacher, Adam Walker, was a BNP candidate in the Durham County Council elections in May while being employed as a supply teacher teaching technology at the local Teesdale school. Despite schools throughout the country employing teachers who are members of left-wing parties such as the Labour Party, Socialist Workers Party and the Communist Party, local Labour MPs, Helen Goodman and Roberta Woods condemned the school's decision to employ a member of the BNP.

However, Dr Jane Philbrick, chairwoman of Teesdale school's Board of Governors defended the school's decision to employ the BNP man saying, "We were aware of Mr Walker's political beliefs from day one and there's no evidence that he used his time at Teesdale school as a political platform. We've been pleased with the teaching he has carried out for us. We have much to be grateful to him for".

At last, a victory for common sense!

Solidarity Union Wins Political Discrimination Case

Solidarity the Independent British trade union has won the reinstatement at work of three Sita Suez employees who had been suspended pending a company investigation into the employees' membership of the British National Party.

It is believed that the original complaint was made to Sita Suez by rival trade union Unite, the union which the employees resigned from to join Solidarity. The assistant depot manager of the Sita Suez depot in Willenhall immediately suspended the workers and launched an investigation. Solidarity officials advised the company that trade union rights are protected by legislation and legal action could follow the employees' suspensions. A short time after this the Solidarity union issued the following statement "We are pleased to report that Sita Suez has seen the error of its ways and has agreed to reinstate the three Solidarity members immediately, and without any blemish on their records.

British Patriots Claim Political Asylum in United States

Two British Patriots convicted under Britain's draconian "race hate" laws have confounded the legal authorities by jumping bail and flying to the US where on arrival they claimed "political asylum".

Simon Sheppard and Steve Whittle were both found guilty at Leeds Crown Court of publishing articles on the internet which breached Britain's race-hate laws. They were given bail to return to the court to await the jury's verdict on other charges, but in a well planned move, they flew to the United States and claimed political asylum on arrival.

The two men had previously contacted US authorities to confirm that the articles they had posted on a web server based in California were perfectly legal under American law and protected by the First Amendment, If the pair are granted political asylum it could set a legal precedent for other British political dissidents.

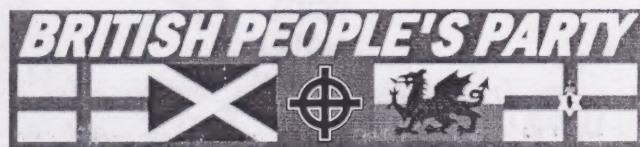

BFP Activists Support Loyalist March

Activists from the North-West unit of the British First Party travelled to Southport on July 12th to give their support to a Loyalist march organised to celebrate "the Glorious 12th". The BFP unit seized the opportunity to hand out leaflets and copies of the party newspaper to the large crowd that had gathered to watch the Loyalist marchers.

British Peoples Party Plan Street Marches

The British Peoples Party has applied for permission to hold "Stop anti-White Racism" marches in four areas of Britain. The areas selected are West Bromwich, Dewsbury, Bradford and Oldham. If permission is granted the marches will take place in the autumn.

A successful meeting was held in London and attracted about 70 members and supporters despite attempts by the police to deter attendees. Many members were detained by police officers in the street and lined up until their photographs were taken by police photographers. One wonders if Labour Party supporters are treated in the same way when they attend meetings.

The BPP are planning to hold their second annual party conference in Leeds this year. The date is yet to be announced.

REDS FAIL TO STOP BNP FAMILY FESTIVAL

Riot police using batons and supported by police dog units and helicopters were drafted in to prevent extreme-left demonstrators from interfering with a legally organised family festival hosted by the British National Party.

Appeals for people to demonstrate against the BNP festival were supported by almost every known extreme-left organisation and was widely advertised on left-wing websites. Despite this mass appeal only 400 managed to make their way to the demonstration at Denby in rural Derbyshire.

According to the demonstrations main organisers, Unite Against Fascism, demonstrators were brought in by coaches from the surrounding East Midlands, Derby, Chesterfield, the Black Country, Nottingham and Leicester. Trade union members from the National Union of Teachers, Unison, Unite, the massive rail union RMT and the public services union the PCS also attended but still the police estimated only 400 people were in attendance!

Police feared violence would occur when members from the notoriously violent, Socialist Workers Party were seen arriving. The SWP has a history of violent attacks on the police.

In addition, a sinister appeal for support, issued by the shadowy Antifa organisation entitled "Smash the BNP's Scumfest" was almost a "call to arms" these extremists even publicised the address and home telephone number of the owner of the festival site and later feigned surprise when reporting that the landowners home had been vandalised! There were also reports that local police had fitted a panic alarm and covert surveillance cameras to the landowners' house.

Personal details of the suppliers of mobile toilets to be used at the festival site were also published by Antifa and maps of how to get to the site and photos of the site were published on the left-wing Indymedia website.

While the UAF and their trade union fundraisers held their protest surrounded by 250 police officers police in nearby Denby, riot police with dogs used batons to prevent members of the more lunatic-left breaking through police lines to enter the festival site at Codnor.

Police were at one stage pelted with stones by the extremists and 33 arrests were made.

Despite the attempts to disrupt the festival, the British National Party have reported that this year's festival "was the best yet".

Over the three-days of the festival approximately 4000 members and their families attended. The event hosted a huge professional funfair complete with dodgem rides and "all the fun of the fair", a firework display and dozens of regional stalls. The hot food stalls did a brisk trade as hungry festival goers lapped up the atmosphere.

The festival concluded with a rousing speech by party chairman, Nick Griffin, speaking from the back of the newly purchased "Truth Truck".

The BNP's 2008 RWB Festival "was the best yet"

Following the fun and frolics there was still time for serious business and an Extraordinary General Meeting was held to debate proposed changes to the BNP constitution.

ANOTHER GOVERNMENT AMNESTY FOR ASYLUM SEEKERS

Hundreds of thousands of asylum seekers are secretly being allowed to stay in Britain as the Home Office struggles to clear a backlog of 450,000 applications, some dating back ten years. These case files were "lost in the system" and only rediscovered in 2006. In the two years that have passed, civil servants have only managed to review less than a quarter of the cases and of these, 43,000 asylum seekers have been given permission to remain in Britain permanently just because of the delay. If that proportion is repeated, and as many of the more difficult cases have not yet been reviewed then it is likely that the eventual number allowed to stay will top 250,000. This decision will allow the asylum seekers the automatic right to housing and other benefits as well as allowing them to apply for British citizenship! Of the remaining 47,000 cases that were judged to be blatantly bogus, less than half, just 20,000 people have been deported. The rest are still here!

450,000 Asylum claims "lost in the system"

This is a repeat of the Home Office incompetence of 2003 when 80,000 asylum seekers were granted an amnesty and allowed to stay in Britain irrespective of the merits of their cases.

Unfortunately the deportation system seems to be suffering from the same malaise, in 2006, 29,000 foreign immigrants already living in Britain were refused permission to stay, but only 13,000 were deported, the rest are still here!

In an attempt to hide the true scale of illegal immigration into Britain the Labour government have even ordered the Immigration Service to stop deporting foreign students who illegally overstay their visas. Students are the largest category of long-term visitors to Britain with over 1.5 million visas issued in the past five years. Genuine students can apply for a visa extension if their studies are not completed but many just overstay and work in the "black economy", safe in the knowledge they are unlikely ever to be discovered and deported!

Most student over-stayers are from Africa and the Indian sub-continent.

Foreign criminals are even being offered early release from prison and a resettlement grant of £3000 if they agree to return to the country of origin. The Home Office has spent £350,000 on this scheme so far this year.

Foreigners currently occupy 310,000 council homes

The biggest victims of this mass immigration fiasco are the indigenous Britons. At the beginning of this year government figures showed that foreigners occupied 1.5 million homes in Britain, of these 310,000 are council homes. A further 600,000 homes are rented from the private sector often subsidised by taxpayer funded housing benefit.

Illegal immigrants, bogus asylum seekers or visas over-stayers are now a major threat to our British identity. A recent government study revealed that almost a third of White Britons believe they are the victims of racial prejudice and that they are being treated less favourably than immigrants in housing, schools and by the police.

The subject needs to be at the top of the list for every British patriotic party at every election.

Otherwise our British identity will simply cease to exist!

Footnote: The French government have set their police and immigration officials a target of deporting 26,000 illegal immigrants a year. Illegal immigrants once arrested can be deported within 24 hours.

Italian police are going to fingerprint every resident of the illegal gypsy camps that are being established all over Italy, in a bid to identify criminal elements amongst the Roma gypsies that have poured across the border from Romania. Gypsies are being blamed for a massive increase in criminal activity.

A Lookback at History

Ian Stuart

Y 11.08.1957 - 24.09.1993 A

In the heady days of the 70's and early 80's British nationalism was once again becoming a resurgent force. The National Front, with John Tyndall, Andrew Fountaine and Martin Webster were becoming household names and British Movement, with Colin Jordan and Mike McLaughlin were building an even more militant alternative. Young men were embracing British nationalism in droves but sometimes found themselves on a different wavelength with older nationalists. The young wanted someone who they could easily identify with ... and then along came Ian Stuart!

Ian Stuart, or Ian Stuart Donaldson to give his full name was born in Lancashire in 1957. By the age of 20 Ian had joined the Skinhead culture and embarked on the Skinhead music scene with his band Skrewdriver. After a series of ups and downs the band folded briefly in 1979. By this time Ian was well into the patriotic Skinhead scene and drifted in and out of the various nationalist groups of the time including the NF, British Movement and even attended several League of St George functions in the early 80's.

In the summer of 1982, Ian was persuaded to re-form Skrewdriver. In a gig at a London venue Ian nailed his political colours firmly to the mast when he introduced, with a stiff right-arm salute the band's latest record, "Tomorrow Belongs to Me" and at last young nationalists had a figure that they could identify with. With the cooperation of the National Front a new record label, "White Noise" was established which sent shock waves throughout the music industry.

The shadowy men who controlled much of Britain's music business were outraged by the challenge and a campaign was launched against Ian, Skrewdriver and the emerging patriotic music scene. Pressure was put on venues to ban Skrewdriver gigs and the established music industry media boycotted the band. Not for the last time would "the Oxygen of publicity" to be denied to nationalists!

To overcome this handicap the nationalist rock music scene simply went underground. This added to the mystique of the scene and gigs were organised almost every week, with no advertising but crowds of up to a thousand turned up informed solely by word of mouth!

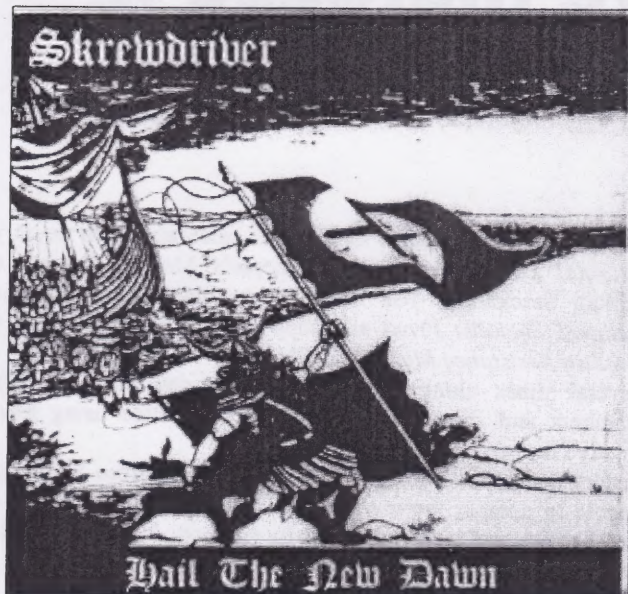

As the rock music scene became even more politicised the establishment media gave their support to a Communist Party / Anti-Nazi League inspired "Rock Against Racism" initiative.

Ian, who was not just a superb musician but he also had a shrewd political mind, and he quickly responded by forming a coalition of white nationalist bands under the title of "Rock Against Communism".

There then followed a hectic, but exciting period when fans of opposing political sides would regularly infiltrate and attack each others gigs. Without a doubt the nationalists were the victors in most of these skirmishes, and on one memorable occasion even managed to gain control of their opponent's stage after physically, and somewhat brutally, throwing the RAR band off of it!

As their popularity grew, Skrewdriver switched to the German-based record label, Rock-O-Rama. In 1984, under their new label Skrewdriver released their now legendary album, "Hail the New Dawn". The record was an immediate hit amongst young nationalists and at last Europe and the US began to embrace patriotic rock music.

"Hail the New Dawn"

As Ian and Skrewdriver's support grew, so did nationalism and the authorities were watching carefully. Their opportunity came in December 1985 when Ian was arrested following a skirmish with a group of immigrants. He was sentenced to 12 months imprisonment. During his time behind bars he shared a cell for a while with Paul David (Charlie) Sargent, another dedicated racial-nationalist who later became the leader of Combat 18. During this period of incarceration Ian spent much of his time working-out in the gym and writing new songs for his forthcoming "White Rider" LP. Free again in 1987, Ian found that the "White Noise" organisation was in disarray so Skrewdriver together with other nationalist bands such as No Remorse, Brutal Attack and Squadron, he formed "The Independent Voice of the right-wing resistance movement" ... Blood & Honour!

From its conception, Blood & Honour was to be a nationalist movement built around musical revolution with no party political barriers to hinder the "Struggle". In July 1987, the first issue of the now world famous Blood & Honour magazine hit the streets under the banner of "Blood & Honour 'The Independent Voice of Rock Against Communism'" The headline of that issue was "When the Storm Breaks!"

Within weeks the storm certainly did break. All of the bands that made up Blood & Honour were unashamedly racist, Fascist and National Socialist. The Jewish Board of Deputies gave Ian the title "the most anti-Semitic man in Britain", a title that he did his best to justify!

Still based in London Ian became a cult figure amongst the Skinhead shops in fashionable Carnaby Street and many shops began to stock his records. Internationally the band's reputation was growing and they were invited to play all over Europe. Germany was Ian's favourite European country and the band were tremendously popular there. In the former East German town of Cottbus the band were invited to play at a gig arranged to celebrate the freedom from Communist occupation and the re-unification of Germany. As thousands of rock fans from all over Europe gathered in the town there was the inevitable clashes with red opposition and the local police and Ian and Skrewdriver members were arrested. Ian was quickly released but the rest of the band remained in custody for over a month before being released without charge. These experiences were all part of the authorities campaign against resurgent white nationalism. On his return to Britain Ian celebrated by recording a mini-LP entitled "Justice for the Cottbus Six".

In 1992 Blood & Honour planned their biggest ever venture, a massive concert to be held in London with top bands from all over Europe. The redirection point was to be Waterloo station. A day to remember!

Posters advertising the gig went up in every major city and Ian was even interviewed by local radio. British fans were told by word of mouth that the gig was actually taking place in Eltham, South London, but foreign fans were to be redirected from Waterloo. Hundreds of foreign fans were detained at the Channel Ports in a deliberate and successful attempt to stop them attending. Around 200 fans did get to Waterloo but were faced with 1000 anti-Fascist demonstrators waiting for them. The police did little to intervene and the fighting got quite serious. Meanwhile in Eltham the gig went ahead successfully with Ian and the band giving one of their best ever performances. Security at the gig was provided by the formidable British Movement "Leader Guard" and not one red dared show his face!

This success was followed by the recording of perhaps the band's best ever LP "Hail Victory". Sadly Ian was never to see this album released. On the night of the 23rd of September 1993, Ian and band member Steve Flint were killed when their car crashed in Deryshire.

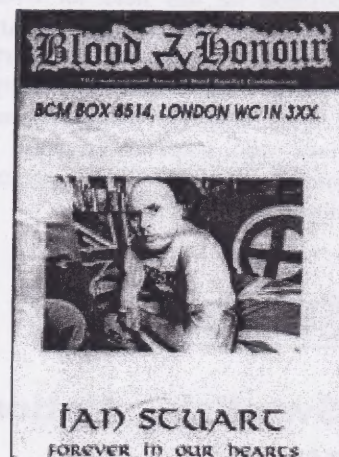

In a stroke, white racial nationalism had lost a warrior-leader and the music world lost a truly talented, inspired musician.

Today Ian's message of hope for white nationalists, his pride and convictions, his love of his Race and Nation, is continued by his Comrades in Blood & Honour. And we can rest assured that Ian continues to march with us in Spirit.

"Hail the New Dawn"

... "The streets are still, the final battle ended, flush with the fight, we proudly hail the dawn, See over the streets, the white man's emblem is waving, Triumphant standard of a race reborn"

Massive Increase in Support for NPD in Saxony

Germany

The Nationaldemokratische Partei Deutschlands (NPD) made massive gains in the recent State elections in Saxony. The German patriots more than trebled their previous votes, up from 41,000 in 2004, to over 160,000 and in doing so gained 44 seats on County Councils. In two of the seats the NPD even attracted more votes than the mainstream Social Democrats. The NPD's next task will be to improve their regional parliamentary support in Saxony, currently standing at 9.2%.

At the NPD's National Conference, Udo Voight (pictured right) was re-elected as National Chairman, a position he has held for over a decade. The former German Army officer is joined on the party's national executive by lawyer, Jurgen Rieger, a nationalist hard-liner who helps to organise the annual Rudolf Hess memorial march.

Swedish Nationalists on the March

Over a thousand Swedish nationalists celebrated their country's National Day by holding a "People's March" through the capital, Stockholm. The march was organised by Sweden's National Socialist Front and supported by militants from the Swedish Resistance Movement (SMR).

Several times along the route anti-Fascists tried to attack marchers and disrupt the event but the police using batons ensured the march was not halted.

Unfortunately several dozen young militants from SMR were unable to contain themselves and left the march to attack the anti-Fascists and were subsequently arrested. A nationalists rally held later in the day went ahead without any further trouble.

Nationalists Force Vote on Muslim Minarets

Swiss nationalists have forced their government to hold a referendum on whether to ban the building of minarets on Mosques.

The minarets, or prayer towers, are traditionally used to call worshippers to prayer and are not an integral part of the Muslim religion, but a political symbol of Islam, the nationalists claim.

The minarets also dominate the skyline and are out of character with typically Swiss architecture, said a spokesman for the "Ban the Minarets" campaign.

AustraliaHolocaust Dissident Goes On Trial

Adelaide: The director of the famed Adelaide Institute, Dr Fred Toben is facing 28 charges alleging that he breached orders made by the Australian Federal Court in 2002 to remove items of racial hatred from his website. If found guilty he could be jailed for "criminal contempt".

Dr Toben, a former University lecturer, has been a consistent critic of the authorised version of the Holocaust and in 1999 was sentenced to nine-months imprisonment in Germany for breaches of Germany's draconian Holocaust Law.

The latest charges followed a complaint by a former president of the Executive Council of Australian Jewry that Dr Toben had failed to remove "offensive comments about the Holocaust" from his website as directed by a District Judge in 2002.

Dr Toben has been a "hate figure" to elements of Australian Jewry since attending the International Conference to Review the Holocaust in Iran in 2006.

FlandersFlemish Nationalists Complain About Race-Hate Article

The Flemish nationalist party, Vlaams Belang have made an official complaint against a prominent Belgian journalist after he published a racist article about the Irish people.

The decision by Irish voters to vote "no" in the referendum on the Lisbon treaty has incensed pro-EU figures in Belgium, but, Paul Goossens, a journalist working for the Belgian press agency BELGA decided to describe the Irish people as, "a nation of parochial traditions, penny pinching misers, Catholicism and alcohol" in an article published in the Belgian daily newspaper "De Morgen". Vlaams Belang, the largest Flemish party in Belgium, have frequently suffered themselves under Belgium's draconian "race-hate" laws, and saw Goossen's article as a prime case of anti-Irish hatred. Their complaint has received widespread media cover and has generated debate as to whether the race-hate laws will be applied where the victims are white Europeans, as vigorously as they are where the victims are of Moroccan or Turkish origin.

FranceFrench Citizenship Refused to "radical" Muslim

The French authorities have refused citizenship to a Muslim woman on the grounds that her "radical" following of Islam is incompatible with French values. According to a report submitted by French social services, the unnamed woman is a fervent Muslim who wears a burka that covers all of her body except her eyes, and lives in "total submission to her husband and male relatives". The Immigration Tribunal ruled that this way of life was "incompatible with essential values of the French community". No further appeal to the decision is allowed by French law.

Holocaust Industry News

It was American-Jewish author, Norman Finkelstein who first coined the phrase the "Holocaust Industry" in an attempt to embarrass fellow Jews who were he felt, exploiting Jewish suffering to extort money from Europe in the name of "needy Holocaust victims". Mr Finkelstein made his claims in his book "The Holocaust Industry: Reflections on the Exploitation of Jewish Suffering" published in 2000, and in the eight years that have past, the Holocaust Industry seems to be growing faster than any manufacturing or service industry in any part of the world.

Professor Finkelstein Refused Entry to Israel

The distinguished political scientist, Professor Norman Finkelstein, (pictured above) has been banned from entering Israel, despite being Jewish! Professor Finkelstein was arrested by members of the Israeli secret service, Shin Bet shortly after arriving at Ben Gurion airport. After several hours of questioning he was informed that he was being regarded as a security risk and banned from entering the country for the next ten years!

Lawyers acting for Professor Finkelstein are to appeal the decision based on Israel's "Law of Return" which allows any Jew from any part of the world to immigrate to Israel and obtain Israeli citizenship.

Holocaust Survivors Criticise Jewish Claims Conference

Holocaust Survivors groups in Germany and Israel have criticised the New York based, Jewish Claims Conference (JCC) for sitting on funds in excess of 1.5 billion Euros instead of distributing the money to survivors. Following the reunification of Germany in 1990 Holocaust survivors were given just two years to make claims for the restoration of property that had been behind the Berlin Wall since the end of the war. After this period had expired the rights to any such property transferred to the JCC. According to the JCC's own records the sale of these properties raised about $2.3 billion (1.5 billion euros). How much of these funds have actually been distributed to survivors seems to be unclear.

Former Judge Calls For Holocaust Denial to be De-Criminalised

A retired German Supreme Court Judge has called for Holocaust denial, one of the most heinous of crimes in Germany, to be de-criminalised. The Judge, Wolfgang Hoffmann-Riem, told a conference at the prestigious Berlin Social Science Research Centre the law on Holocaust Denial was a bad law because it prevented research and debate on the issue.

Jewish Groups Upset over German Citizenship Test Which Ignores the Holocaust

Several German Jewish groups have complained to the government that the new German citizenship test has no reference to the Holocaust in its German History section. The new test, mandatory from September for immigrants who wish to become German citizens contains 33 questions on the laws, customs and history of the country, but has no questions specifically on the Holocaust.
